Dear Hank:

Words fail me when I try to convey the enthusiasm and thanks of our group for the really magnificent address which you gave last Friday noon. I think you received the first spontaneous standing ovation that any of our speakers has received in the twenty-six conferences that we have so far had. If immortality is living with immortal ideas and thoughts, then I think I am justified in repeating that you remain incorrigibly immortal.

With repeated thanks and all good wishes,

Faithfully yours,

Ben D. Wood, Director
